Thursday, October 11, 2001 "Tips to Help Business Travelers Maximize Safety and Minimize Risks"—presented by Rad Jones of the Criminal Justice Department at Michigan State University, former Secret Service Agent and director of Security for Ford Motor Company.

Radford W. Jones is an academic specialist for the School of Criminal Justice. He joined Michigan State in January 1997 after retiring from a 14-year career as the manager of Security and Fire Protection, Ford Motor Company. At Ford, he was responsible for the development and implementation of global security and fire programs and the security of over 300,000 employees.

He retired from the U.S Secret Service in 1983 as the special agent in charge of the Detroit office. During his 21-year Secret Service career he was in charge of the Seattle, Washington, and Alaska operations and served as a supervisor in a number of field offices and headquarters divisions. He also was assigned to Presidential, Vice Presidential, and foreign dignitary protective details. He was responsible for security coordination during the 1976 Presidential Inauguration and three political conventions.

Rad is an alumnus of the U.S. Department of State Overseas Security Advisory Council that was formed by President Reagan to protect U.S. businesses and travelers worldwide, and the development of global security programs. He served on the Council for eight years and was chairperson of several major committees, which provided guidance to State Department operations.

Thursday, November 8, 2001 "Globalization and Consolidation: The Pharmaceutical Industry: Challenges for Small, Medium, and Large Firms"—John Risenger, vice president, Business Information Pharmacia & Upjohn (retired) will address these issues.
