Export regulations have changed, and will continue to change. Are you up to date? Do you know what your company needs to do to be compliant? Does your product require an export license? How do you know? The regulations have changed; we will discuss US Export Administration Regulations and how to find out if your product or technology requires a license for export. Karen will address the new "600 series" and how Export Control Reform can affect your company. Whether or not your product or technology requires an export license, restricted party screening is something every company needs to do. From the President and CEO to the shipping clerk, everyone is responsible for compliance with regulations. This workshop is ideal for current exporters, as well as new exporters. We will highlight what companies should be doing right now in light of the new and changing regulatory environment.
